

LET ME TRY · FREE PRINTABLE

10 Connection Rituals for Busy Parents

Small moments, big impact · All ages

Connection doesn't need hours. It's built in small, daily moments of full attention. Pick two rituals and make them part of every day.

Daily rituals

- ○ A 10-minute 'special time': phone away, child leads the play
- ○ A long hug at the door before work and after coming home
- ○ One meal a day together, without screens
- ○ A bedtime question: “What was the best part of your day?”
- ○ A silly family song for bath time

When they're struggling

- ○ Get to their eye level
- ○ Name what you see: “That was really hard.”
- ○ Stay close, even if they push you away
- ○ Reconnect after a conflict: “We're okay. I love you.”

Remember

- ○ Toddler 'misbehaviour' is often a need: tired, hungry, overwhelmed or wanting you.
- ○ You don't have to get it right every time. Repair matters more than perfection.

SOURCES AND FURTHER READING

Siegel, D. J., & Bryson, T. P. (2011). The Whole-Brain Child. Delacorte Press.